Site Review Notes

Iris Hu

hu.yuxin@wustl.edu

Hi Zhishu! I'm glad that you have worked along your way to realize your mockup! For now, it looks very consistent since the styling is not yet added on. I would recommend keeping the cleanness and readability as you add more stylistic treatments. There are some details I think that need to be improved.

1. Kabuki Intro There could be some hierarchies between the texts. For example, the important names and terms could be bold or in another color like red. This also applies to other parts of the site.

2. Elements Since you are going to have a navigation bar, it's probably better to put the 4 different elements within the ul or sublist of "Elements".

3. History and Impact These two parts are short, kind of boring, yet important, so carefully place the images will help catch the viewer's attention.

For the typeface selection, I would suggest a classic serif to accompany the content about traditions. Overall, it's still a new-born-baby site but I'm looking forward to your final product!